Open Doors: Betsy Kolkea

In February, seventy Christians were massacred by militants associated with Islamic State in DRC. They were taken from their homes, herded into a church, and beheaded. "This was not just an act of terror. It was a targeted massacre of Christians, and it will not stop here," says Illia Djadi, Senior Analyst for Freedom of Religion or Belief in sub-Saharan Africa for Open Doors. "The ADF is part of a growing extremist network that wants to wipe out Christianity in the region. If nothing is done, more attacks will follow. We have seen before that international pressure works. In 2012, (similar violence) was stopped when the US and others put diplomatic and economic pressure on Rwanda to withdraw its support. We need that kind of leadership again. Governments must speak up now before more lives are lost."

What should we pray? We are asked to pray for the violence to end, and that the government at all levels will diligently, impartially and transparently address the violence and its effects. We are asked to pray for the local church as she seeks to bring physical and spiritual assistance to the families affected. We are asked to raise awareness, contact our MPs, and demand that the UK government speaks out. An elder of the local church said "We don't know what to do or how to pray; we've had enough of massacres. May God's will alone be done." Would we have faith to repeat Jesus's prayer of 'thy will be done' even in these circumstances?
